May 2009 – Arlington Heights, IL – Dr. Stevan Orser, of Arlington Heights, Illinois, has achieved Accredited status in the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry (AACD). He joins 10 AACD Accredited members in the state of Illinois, and 320 dentists and laboratory technicians in AACD history who have earned this prestigious designation. The highly sought Accreditation credential represents the standard of excellence in cosmetic dentistry. Dr. Stevan Orser was awarded this status through the demonstration of advanced skills and knowledge. He was recognized at the organization's 25th Anniversary AACD Scientific Session, held in Honolulu, Hawaii, April 27 - May 1, 2009.

"I am honored to become an Accredited member of the AACD. Through the challenges of the program, I have learned the keys to providing my patients with exceptional cosmetic dental services," said Dr. Stevan Orser.

Through the AACD's Accreditation program for dentists and dental laboratory technicians, AACD members must undergo a three-part process consisting of a written examination, submission of clinical cases for evaluation, and an oral examination. Each individual must also attend a series of workshops as part of the program. While each part must be completed in sequence, individuals pursuing Accreditation have up to five years to complete the program after successfully completing the written examination.

The AACD is the world's largest non-profit membership organization dedicated to advancing excellence in comprehensive oral care that combines art and science to optimally improve dental health, esthetics, and function. Comprised of more than 7,000 cosmetic dental professionals in 70 countries around the globe, the AACD fulfills its mission by offering superior educational opportunities, promoting and supporting a respected Accreditation credential, serving as a user-friendly and inviting forum for the creative exchange of knowledge and ideas, and providing accurate and useful information to the public and the profession.
